

Bargain on the side of health and social services workers

The bargaining talks are starting and we need to make the government listen to reason. It must hear our solutions. It must choose the right side : the side of workers!

The government claims it wants to be an employer of choice. We are still waiting for it to walk the talk. If it wants to convince people to come work in the public system and to stay in the system, it must start implementing our solutions. The situation is urgent. The FSSS-CSN is demanding improvements to working conditions in five areas :

- Humanize care and services
- Value personnel and increase their sense of belonging
- Address wrongs and injustices
- Take care of workers
- Protect and decentralize public services

The health and social services system needs some TLC. Structural reforms are not enough. The government must take care of its employees!

There is only one way to get better working conditions: we must organize to make gains.

In the coming weeks, we will introduce you to several tools information on staff demands for health negotiations and social services. Stay tuned!
