

Priority 3 : Address wrongs and injustices

---

For too long, many employers have been forcing us to go the legal route. Workers have to wait months or years for grievances to be settled. It's not normal for it to take so long to resolve problems in our workplaces.

Speed up the settlement of disputes and grievances

Employers need to stop looking at things through a legal lens and start talking to the unions to resolve the problems their members are experiencing. That is another way to attract and retain employees.

We shouldn't have to pay to work

For many employees, going to work is expensive. Parking fees are too high and reimbursement of travel costs is inadequate.
